This guide provides a full transcript of Part and Part II and Annex, as well as an easy-to-read analysis of the key provisions.

Part

Part sets out the general principles of the United Kingdom's membership of the European Union. It includes the following key provisions:

* The United Kingdom is a member of the European Union. * The United Kingdom is committed to the objectives of the European Union. * The United Kingdom will cooperate with the other member states of the European Union in achieving the objectives of the European Union.

Part II

Part II sets out the specific terms and conditions of the United Kingdom's membership of the European Union. It includes the following key provisions:

- * The United Kingdom is a member of the European Economic Community.
- * The United Kingdom is a member of the European Atomic Energy Community.
- * The United Kingdom is a member of the European Coal and Steel Community.

Annex

The Annex sets out the transitional arrangements for the United Kingdom's membership of the European Union. It includes the following key provisions:

- * The United Kingdom will have a transitional period of five years after joining the European Union.
- * During the transitional period, the United Kingdom will be able to opt out of certain European Union laws and policies.

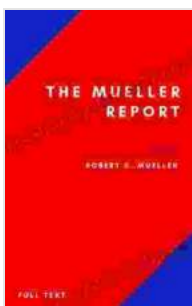

Analysis

The key provisions of Part and Part II and Annex have been interpreted and applied by the courts in a number of cases. The following is a summary of some of the key judicial decisions:

* In the case of Factortame Ltd v Secretary of State for Transport, the Court of Justice of the European Union ruled that the United Kingdom could not opt out of the European Union's common fisheries policy. * In the case of R v Secretary of State for the Home Department, ex parte Simms, the House of Lords ruled that the United Kingdom could not opt out of the European Union's free movement of people provisions.

These cases demonstrate that the courts have taken a strict approach to interpreting the key provisions of Part and Part II and Annex. This has meant that the United Kingdom has been unable to opt out of a number of key European Union laws and policies.
